

The Invisible Oil Spill

An aerial photograph of an oil spill in the ocean. The sun is low on the horizon, creating a bright, golden glow that reflects off the water. The oil spill is visible as a dark, irregular shape in the center of the frame, surrounded by a thin layer of white foam. The background shows the dark blue of the ocean and the white of the clouds. The sky is a deep purple and blue, with a bright sun visible at the top center.
